RE: Safe, Free Wireless Internet Accessibility

Dear Chairman Martin:

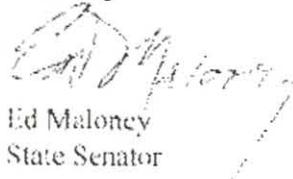

I have spent more than thirty years in the classroom teaching high school students. As a career educator, I constantly encourage participation in activities that enhance the classroom education. Utilizing online resources to support secondary education has become as commonplace as the chalkboard in today's classroom.

Free universal broadband access would allow all students, regardless of income level, to utilize and access the countless educational opportunities that exist outside the classroom.

As Chairman of the Illinois Senate Higher Education Committee I know that colleges and universities expect and demand computer competence and internet ability on the part of their students. Limited access to internet can present an obstacle and be a setback in a student's educational career.

I understand that there is a proposal pending before the Federal Communications Commission that would provide universal free broadband access across the country. This program would help bridge the digital divide and provide all of today's youth a better opportunity to succeed in their educational pursuits.

Sincerely,

Ed Maloney
State Senator
